

Plate 1: Tracks and earthworks on Wee Fea from north-west

Plate 2: Peat cuttings on southern slopes of Wee Fea from south-west

Plate 3: View across site from south-east showing Wee Fea earthworks and tracks

Plate 4: Possible prehistoric cairn (Site 493)

Plate 5: Possible cup-marked stone (Site 494)

Plate 6: Possible prehistoric cairn (Site 492) from south

Plate 7: Possible dump of demolition materials/remains of stove (Site 491)

Plate 8: Concrete gate piers (Site 495) marking southern edge of Second World War military site

Plate 9: Possible searchlight base (Site 309) from west overlooking Scapa Flow

Plate 10: Slit trench (site 498) from north-west

Plate 11: Possible military borehole (Site 497) from west

Plate 12: View from Wee Fea showing military earthworks from north-west

Plate 13: Category A Listed Former Naval Command and Communications Centre (Site 127) from south-west

Plate 14: Royal Naval Cemetery, Lyness (Sit 147) from south

Plate 15: Key visual alignment within Royal Naval Cemetery

Plate 16: Secondary entrance to Underground Fuel Reservoir (Site 143) from north-east

Plate 17: Principal entrance to Underground Fuel Reservoir (Site 143) from south-west

Plate 18: Military feature (Site 297) on summit of Wee Fea